Before this walk, you could not have convinced me that I really fit anywhere. I had no sense of belonging, and was just honestly going through the motions of life. I felt that I was just here; that I didn't really have a purpose, and didn't have a desire to know what God's purpose for me was. I didn't think anyone outside of my family, and a very small circle of friends, really even cared. Boy was I wrong.

I thought if I kept myself busy enough I wouldn't have to feel anything. I could get so caught up in the busy that maybe I could keep myself somewhat happy. I became quite the people pleaser as well, because I thought that if I could make everyone else happy-then maybe I would be happy too. When the opportunity came for me to go on the Walk to Emmaus, I just went into it really just seeking love and acceptance. I never could have imagined what taking time out of my "busy" life to spend three days with Jesus would do for my walk with Him. Friendships were made; walls were torn down-just to name a few. Watching people humble themselves and serve others was humbling to me. Walking out the conference room on Saturday night--seeing and feeling all that LOVE. That night Jesus showed me Himself in a way that I had never seen or experienced before. The Spirit tore down walls that I honestly didn't know were built up so high.

Since the walk, I love and serve differently. The grounds here at Tattnall are sacred. My life is forever changed because of my experience that weekend. My walk with Jesus is definitely stronger because of it. My love for community is stronger because of it.

DeColores!
